

Predicting Student Evaluation of Instructor and Course: Revisiting the Relationship among Course Grades, Improving Teaching, and Summative Evaluation

ABSTRACT

C. S. Gaede, M. D. Svinicki, and D. M. Zimmaro

An analysis of course and instructor ratings at a large southwestern university indicated that communication and interest items were the strongest predictors of overall instructor rating and that value and communication items were the strongest predictors of overall course rating. Mean course grade point average was not a significant predictor.