•Course Description: This course is designed to provide students with an overview of the social, cultural, economic, and political development of colonial Spanish America between 1492 and 1821. Spanish imperial control over its American colonies lasted for three hundred years. How do we explain the longevity of Spanish control and when the Spanish American colonists fought for their independence why did the insurgent movements occur in the early nineteenth century and not before? Between Spanish invasion, conquest, and eventual loss of empire, what kind of societies were created in Spanish America? On what terms were the indigenous populations incorporated into conquest society and economy and what factors shaped their responses to Spanish colonialism? What images did the Spanish form of the "New World" inhabitants and what impact did they have upon Spanish intellectual thought? What type of society and economy did those Spaniards who sought their fortunes in the colonies shape for themselves and their descendants? Topics to be addressed include the Spanish and Pre-Colombian traditions of conquest and imperialism, the consolidation of Spanish imperial government in the so-called "New World", Church-State relations, the development of the colonial economies in the context of early globalization, slavery, race, class, and gender in colonial societies, the movements of political independence from Spain and the problems faced by the new republics as emergent nation-states in the nineteenth century. Special emphasis will be placed on indigenous and Afro-American responses to Spanish colonialism during three centuries of imperial rule and their influences on the shaping of colonial rule.

•Course Objectives and Learning Outcomes:

- (1) Provide students with a thorough understanding of the major political, social, economic, and cultural developments that shaped Spanish American colonial societies and the formation, consolidation, and decline of the Spanish empire
- (2) Expose students to the heterogeneous forms of colonialism and power relationships that developed in Spanish America during a period of three hundred years
- (3) Expose students to historiographical debates about colonial Spanish America and recent research in the field
- (4) Develop students' analytical and critical reading, thinking, note-taking, and writing skills
- (5) Develop students' abilities to interpret and assess historical evidence

• Course Requirements and Grading Policies:

Students' work will be assessed using the +/- scale (see grading scale below). I do not give incompletes. If problems arise that make it difficult for you to keep up with the course work, please come and talk to me about them as soon as possible so that we can work on a solution. All assignment instructions will be distributed in class and posted on Blackboard under "Assignments." If you require special accommodations, you must obtain a letter that documents your disability from the Services for Students with Disabilities area of the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement (471-6259 voice or 471-4641 TTY for users who are deaf or hard of hearing). Please provide me with a copy of this letter at the beginning of the semester so we can discuss the accommodations you need. For more information, visit:

<http://www.utexas.edu/diversity/ddce/ssd/>

The final grade for this course will be based on the following assignments (there is no final exam for this course):

- 1. 20% - Participation. Students' participation will be based on two components:
 - a. 10% - Low anxiety informal writing responses based on the SQ3R approach (Survey, Question, Read, Recall, Review): students will write 8 responses on assigned weekly readings. These are designed to focus your reading, develop your analytical and critical skills, and facilitate your work with formal writing assignments as well as your active participation in class discussions.
 - b. 10% - Attendance and active participation in class discussions. Note that students are expected to attend all classes and discussions. Excessive absenteeism (defined as missing more than 3 classes, excused and unexcused absences) will result in 2 full grade penalties for the final grade. If you know that you will be unable to attend class for legitimate reasons (illness, family/work emergency, interviews, etc.) please e-mail me or let me know as soon as you can that you will not be able to attend. Please also note that late arrival to class (defined as 10 minutes late and above) will count as an absence; persistent lateness, defined as late arrival to class for more than 3 classes will result in 1 full grade penalty. Students who have legitimate reasons to arrive a few minutes late need to let me know that this will be the case. Please do not tell me that the bus was late. Take an earlier bus. You know there will always be parking problems so anticipate them. A roster in the form of a sign-in sheet will be circulated every class day. It is each student's responsibility to make sure that s/he signs the roster each class day.

Active participation means exactly that—A-C-T-I-V-E. Even if you have perfect attendance but do not contribute to class discussion, expect to receive a lower grade. Evidence of active participation includes:

- a. posing thoughtful questions during lecture/discussion
 - b. making observations and/or arguments that demonstrate familiarity and engagement with the readings/lectures/other students' comments during lectures/discussions
 - c. offering constructive debate with instructor/students/authors supported by evidence based on readings/discussions
 - d. observing contradictions in authors' arguments and/or historical evidence with which the student engages
 - e. letting/encouraging all students to speak (not just the eager minority), being respectful of each other's opinions, and maintaining a positive, civil space for discussion in which all students feel comfortable expressing their opinions. Learning the names of your colleagues in class.
- 4. 10% - analysis of two primary documents (5% and 5%)
 - 5. 20% - Critical review of Daniel Castro's Another Face of Empire
 - 6. 20% - Critical review of Camilla Townsend's Malintzin's Choices
 - 7. 30% - Critical review of Karen Racine's Francisco de Miranda

Grading Scale:

A	95-100	B+	87-89	C+	77-79	D+	67-69
A-	90-94	B	84-86	C	74-76	D	64-66
		B-	80-83	C-	70-73	D-	60-63
F	59>*

*Failure to turn in an assignment will result in 0 grade points

Please note: any written assignments which are handed in late without receiving prior approval from me will receive an automatic 'F.' Exceptions will be made for illness (documentation required) and/or unavoidable personal emergencies (inform me as soon as you can about the problem). Also please note that I do not accept submissions of assignments by e-mail except under unusual circumstances. I will, however, answer any questions you have or clarifications you need by e-mail and will respond as promptly as I can to your queries. Please make sure that all cell phones, pagers, I-pods and other electronic miscellany are turned off before class begins. We all forget to do this I know, but let's do our best. I-Pads and laptops are not permitted in class except for designated class presentations.

Students are strongly encouraged to see me at least once (preferably more than once) during the semester on an individual basis to discuss interests and/or questions you may have - I like to know who I am teaching. Assume nothing - ask if you have any doubts at all about any of the course requirements.

Important Additional Information:

Policy on Scholastic Dishonesty/Plagiarism (Student Judicial Services): Students who violate University rules on scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including the possibility of failure in the course and/or dismissal from the University. Since such dishonesty harms the individual, all students, and the integrity of the University, policies on scholastic dishonesty will be strictly enforced. For further information please visit the Student Judicial Services website: <http://deanofstudents.utexas.edu/sjs>. If you have additional questions about plagiarism please do not hesitate to discuss them with me. Please understand that “ignorance” is not a defense in plagiarism cases.

University of Texas Honor Code: The core values of the University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity, and responsibility. Each member of the university is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, trust, fairness, and respect toward peers and community.

Use of E-mail for Official Correspondence to Students: E-mail is recognized as an official mode of university correspondence; therefore, you are responsible for reading your e-mail for university and course-related information and announcements. You are responsible to keep the university informed about changes to your e-mail address. You should check your e-mail regularly and frequently—at minimum twice a week—to stay current with university-related communications, some of which may be time-critical. You can find UT-Austin’s policies and instructions for updating your e-mail address at <http://www.utexas.edu/its/policies/emailnotify.php>

Religious Holidays: UT-Austin policy requires that you must notify me of your pending absence at least fourteen days prior to the date of the observance of a religious holy day. If you must miss a class or the deadline for submission of an assignment in order to observe a religious holy day, I will give you an opportunity to complete the missed work within a reasonable time after the absence.

Behavior Concerns Advice Line (BCAL): If you are worried about someone who is acting differently, you may use the Behavior Concerns Advice Line to discuss by phone your concerns about another individual’s behavior. This service is provided through a partnership among the Office of the Dean of Students, the Counseling and Mental Health Center (CMHC), the Employee Assistance Program (EAP), and the University of Texas Police Department (UTPD). Emergency Evacuation Policy: Occupants of buildings on the UT-Austin campus are required to evacuate and assemble outside when a fire alarm is activated or an announcement is made. Please be aware of the following policies regarding evacuation:

- Familiarize yourself with all exit doors of the classroom and the building.

Remember that the nearest exit door may not be the one you used when you entered the building

- If you require assistance to evacuate, inform me in writing during the first week of class

- In the event of an evacuation, follow my instructions or those of class instructors

- Do not re-enter a building unless you are given instructions by the Austin Fire Department, the UT-Austin Police Department, or the Fire Prevention Services office

Emergency Information: For more information on UT-Austin's emergency policies and procedures see <http://www.utexas.edu/emergency/>
