Course Description:

In this seminar we will focus on the visual and material culture of colonial Latin America. We will explore ways in which particular images and objects came into being and how they provide insights into the social, political, economic, religious, and intellectual histories of colonial Latin America. We will analyse a wide range of visual expression - paintings, sculptures, architecture, maps, etc. Emphasis will be placed on understanding the connections between visual and material culture and the formation of the Ibero-American empires. Emphasis will also be placed on the deep contextualization of specific images and artifacts to understand how they came into being—who produced them, who wanted them and why? We will also consider how images and artifacts function as historical evidence to be interrogated in the same way that we critically assess written sources.

Course Requirements and Grading Policies:

This course carries the Writing Flag. Writing Flag courses are designed to give students experience with writing in an academic discipline. In this class, you can expect to write regularly during the semester, complete substantial writing projects, and receive feedback from your instructor to help you improve your writing. You will also have the opportunity to read and discuss your peers' work. You should therefore expect a substantial portion of your grade to come from your written work. Students' work will be assessed using the +/- scale:

Grading Scale:

A	95-100	B+	87-89	C+	77-79	D+	67-69
A-	90-94	B	84-86	C	74-76	D	64-66
		B-	80-83	C-	70-73	D-	60-63
F	0-59

*Failure to turn in an assignment will result in 0 grade points

Students may rewrite one assignment of their choosing with the exception of the final essay. I will use whichever grade is the highest in calculating the student's final grade. I do not give incompletes. Late submission of any of the assignments without prior discussion with me will result in an automatic "F" for the assignment. If problems arise that make it difficult for you to keep up with the course work, please come and talk to me about them as soon as possible so that we can work on a solution. All assignment instructions will be distributed in class and posted on Blackboard. With the exception of the assignment due on April 18 which is a Wednesday***, all assignments are due to be handed in at the end of each Monday seminar. The final grade for this course will be based on the following assignments (there is no final exam for this course):

- 1. 45%– nine response papers of assigned readings: due Jan 30, Feb 6, 13, 20, 27; March 5, 19, 26; April 2; (one rewrite of one of these papers is allowed)
- 2. 5% Abstract and bibliography for final analytical essay: due April 9
- 3. 5%–peer critique of first drafts of analytical essay: due April 18*****
- 4. 10%–first drafts of final analytical essay: due April 18*****
- 5. 25%–final analytical essay: due April 30
- 6. 10%–Attendance (5%) and active participation (5%) in class discussions: students are expected to attend ALL seminars and if for any reason you are unable to do so please inform me. Any student who misses more than three seminars (excused and unexcused absences combined) will receive an automatic “F” for the course. If you know that you will be unable to attend class for legitimate reasons (illness, family/work emergency, interviews, etc.) please e-mail me or let me know as soon as you can that you will not be able to attend. Absence due to illness needs to be documented. Please also note that late arrival to class (defined as 10 minutes late and above) will count as an absence; persistent lateness, defined as late arrival to class for more than 3 classes will result in 1 full grade penalty off the final grade. Students who have legitimate reasons to arrive a few minutes late need to let me know that this will be the case. Please do not tell me that the bus was late. Take an earlier bus. Attendance will be taken at every seminar meeting.

Active participation means exactly that–A-C-T-I-V-E. Even if you have perfect attendance but do not contribute to class discussion, expect to receive a lower grade. Although each student will act as a seminar leader, it is expected that each student will actively participate in all seminars. Evidence of active participation includes:

- a. posing thoughtful questions during discussions
- b. making observations and/or arguments that demonstrate familiarity and engagement with the readings/instructor’s comments/other students’ comments during discussions
- c. offering constructive debate with instructor/students/authors supported by evidence based on readings/discussions
- d. observing contradictions in authors’ arguments and/or historical evidence with which the student engages
- e. letting/encouraging all students to speak (not just the eager minority), being respectful of each other’s opinions, and maintaining a positive, civil space for discussion in which all students feel comfortable expressing their opinions

PLEASE NOTE that I do not accept submissions of assignments by e-mail except under exceptional circumstances. I will, however, answer any questions you have or clarifications you need by e-mail and will respond as promptly as I can to your queries. Please make sure that all cell phones, pagers, I-pods and other electronic miscellany are turned off before class. We all forget to do this I know, but let's do our best. Laptops are not permitted in class except for designated presentations.

I encourage all of you to see me at least once during my office hours (preferably more than once!) and to discuss issues and topics that are of particular interest to you and additional bibliographies that you may wish to consult. I also strongly encourage you to use the Undergraduate Writing Center, (FAC 211, 471-6222: <http://uwc.utexas.edu/>) The Undergraduate Writing Center offers free, individualized, expert help with writing for any UT undergraduate, by appointment or on a drop-in basis. Any undergraduate enrolled in a course at UT can visit the UWC for assistance with any writing project. They work with students from every department on campus, for both academic and non-academic writing. Their services are not just for writing with "problems." Getting feedback from an informed audience is a normal part of a successful writing project. Consultants help students develop strategies to improve their writing. The assistance they provide is intended to foster independence. Each student determines how to use the consultant's advice. The consultants are trained to help you work on your writing in ways that preserve the integrity of your work.

Students with disabilities may request appropriate academic accommodations and a letter documenting such needs from the office of Services for Students with Disabilities area of the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement (471-6259 voice or 471-4641 TTY for users who are deaf or hard of hearing). Present the letter to me at the beginning of the semester so we can discuss the accommodations you need. For more information, visit <http://www.utexas.edu/diversity/ddce/ssd/>

Important Additional Information:

Policy on Scholastic Dishonesty/Plagiarism (Student Judicial Services): Students must familiarize themselves with the university’s policies on scholastic dishonesty and plagiarism. Students who violate University rules on scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including the possibility of failure in the course and/or dismissal from the University. Since such dishonesty harms the individual, all students, and the integrity of the University, policies on scholastic dishonesty will be strictly enforced. For further information please visit the Student Judicial Services website: <http://deanofstudents.utexas.edu/sjs>. Please discuss any concerns you have regarding these policies with me and please understand that “ignorance” is not a defense in plagiarism cases

University of Texas Honor Code: The core values of the University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity, and responsibility. Each member of the university is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, trust, fairness, and respect toward peers and community

Use of E-mail for Official Correspondence to Students: E-mail is recognized as an official mode of university correspondence; therefore, you are responsible for reading your e-mail for university and course-related information and announcements. You are responsible to keep the university informed about changes to your e-mail address. You should check your e-mail regularly and frequently—at minimum twice a week—to stay current with university-related communications, some of which may be time-critical. You can find UT-Austin's policies and instructions for updating your e-mail address at <http://www.utexas.edu/its/policies/emailnotify.php>

Religious Holidays: UT-Austin policy requires that you must notify me of your pending absence at least fourteen days prior to the date of the observance of a religious holy day. If you must miss a class or the deadline for submission of an assignment in order to observe a religious holy day, I will give you an opportunity to complete the missed work within a reasonable time after the absence.

Behavior Concerns Advice Line (BCAL): If you are worried about someone who is acting differently, you may use the Behavior Concerns Advice Line to discuss by phone your concerns about another individual's behavior. This service is provided through a partnership among the Office of the Dean of Students, the Counseling and Mental Health Center (CMHC), the Employee Assistance Program (EAP), and the University of Texas Police Department (UTPD). Call 512-232-5050 or visit <http://www.utexas.edu/safety/bcal>

Emergency Evacuation Policy: Occupants of buildings on the UT-Austin campus are required to evacuate and assemble outside when a fire alarm is activated or an announcement is made. Please be aware of the following policies regarding evacuation:

- Familiarize yourself with all exit doors of the classroom and the building. Remember that the nearest exit door may not be the one you used when you entered the building
- If you require assistance to evacuate, inform me in writing during the first week of class
- In the event of an evacuation, follow my instructions or those of class instructors
- Do not re-enter a building unless you are given instructions by the Austin Fire Department, the UT-Austin Police Department, or the Fire Prevention Services office

Emergency Information: For more information on UT-Austin's emergency policies and procedures see <http://www.utexas.edu/emergency/>

Suggestions for Efficient Reading and Note-Taking–SQ3R: Survey, Question, Read, Recall, Review

SQ3R is a note taking method from readings which I have adapted here to help you hone your reading and note-taking skills ("Note taking skills - from lectures and readings website (UTC). Rowntree (1976: 40-64) outlines what he calls the "SQ3R" approach to reading and note taking from text. He suggests that students should use the following approaches to maximize their understanding and analysis of readings in the most efficient way:

Survey - skim through the chapter or book and note the layout, first and last chapters or paragraphs, look at the headings used, familiarize yourself with the reading.

Question - ask questions about what the author's main topic is and why the topic is significant

Read - read actively but quickly, looking for the author's main arguments/conclusions – do not take any notes - you might want to read through twice quickly

Recall - Write down the main points of the reading and any really important facts, and opinions that help support the main points. Also note use of significant primary source material

Review - repeat the first three steps over and make sure you haven't missed anything. At this point you might like to finalise your notes and re-read your notes or write down how the material you've just covered relates to your question or task.
