

American Crossroads: Migration, Communities, and Race

April 15 - 16, 2009
UT Campus

This conference convenes scholars of race, activism, and migration to explore comparative trajectories of racialization and community building among Asian, African, and Latino Americans. We encourage the sharing of questions and research problems across ethnic divides to advance our understanding of the coalitions, conflicts, and intersections that distinguish and yet entwine these groups. Our three panels focus on urban communities, activism, and racial discourses.

Sponsors:

Center for Asian American Studies

Institute for Historical Studies

Donald D. Harrington Faculty Fellows Program

Center for Mexican American Studies

John L. Warfield Center for African and African American Studies