

IN MEMORIAM

C. D. RICE

With the death of Professor C. D. Rice on May 28, 1928, the University of Texas lost a faithful, loyal and unselfish servant; the teaching profession lost a devoted and fine spirited member; mathematics lost an earnest teacher and a lifelong student; the community lost a highminded, philanthropic and public spirited citizen; organized religion lost a seven-days-a-week Christian; his friends and neighbors lost a tender and delightful association; his wife lost a loving husband and companion.

Therefore, be it resolved, by the General Faculty of the University of Texas that we express by formal vote our sense of this loss and our sympathy with his family.

Resolved further that this resolution be written in the minutes of the General Faculty and a copy be sent to his wife.

J. W. Calhoun, Chairman,
