2. EXPLAIN CHANGE TO DEGREE PROGRAM AND GIVE A DETAILED RATIONALE FOR EACH INDIVIDUAL CHANGE:

We realized that we needed a second option for the required classes for the EUS major, to meet the needs of students already taking the pre-1700 track and then the new track in European thought. So we added Govt. 351D, Theoretical Foundations of Modern Politics, which the CES Executive Committee felt best represented the scope of both of these tracks. The same Executive Committee felt the strong need to expand the focus of the major to incline a track that would trace the history of European thought over time, and we did this in consultation with our partners in Thomas Jefferson Center in Core Texts and Ideas, as well as our colleagues in History and Government.

PROPOSED NEW CATALOG TEXT:

European Studies

Students select one of two three tracks: (I) European studies with a focus on pre-1700 Europe, and (II) European studies with a focus on post-1700 Europe, or (III) European studies with a focus on European thought. The tracks are interdisciplinary in nature and draw on courses in many departments and allow students considerable opportunity to shape their coursework around their interests.

Students majoring in European studies must complete six semester hours of upper-division coursework in one of the following languages: Czech, Danish, Dutch, French, German, Modern Greek, Italian, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Serbian/Croatian, Spanish, or Swedish. With permission from the director of the Center for European Studies, however, students may study other languages for their major—such as Arabic, Persian, Hindi, Hebrew, Turkish, Russian, Latin, and ancient Greek—when an application of those language skills will significantly enhance their work as distinctly European studies scholars in their track. Courses taught in English may not be used. Courses used to fulfill the European studies language requirement will be counted toward the major.
