Dean Linda Hicke, in the College of Natural Sciences has filed with the secretary of the Faculty Council the following proposal to create a securities studies certificate in the Undergraduate Catalog, 2016-2018. Senior Associate Dean Richard Flores approved the new certificate. The secretary has classified this proposal as legislation of exclusive interest to only one college or school.

The Committee on Undergraduate Degree Program Review recommended approval of the minor on December 3, 2015, and forwarded the proposal to the Office of the General Faculty. The Faculty Council has the authority to approve this legislation on behalf of the General Faculty. The authority to grant final approval on this legislation resides with UT System with formal notification to the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

If no objection is filed with the Office of the General Faculty by the date specified below, the legislation will be held to have been approved by the Faculty Council. If an objection is filed within the prescribed period, the legislation will be presented to the Faculty Council at its next meeting. The objection, with reasons, must be signed by a member of the Faculty Council.

To be counted, a protest must be received in the Office of the General Faculty by December 14, 2015.

Hillary Hart, Secretary
General Faculty and Faculty Council

5. Proposed Implementation Date: Fall 2016

6. CIP Code (administrative unit awarding the certificate): 45.09

7. Statement of Objective:
   The certificate will be listed in “Degrees and Programs” under “Transcript-Recognized Certificate Programs.”

   The Certificate in Security Studies recognizes students who focus their studies on international and national security affairs. Through the certificate, students develop an interdisciplinary expertise and professional experience in security studies, including diplomacy, defense, intelligence, foreign policy, homeland security, international affairs, international development, human rights, war, conflict, peace, and related fields. Students are required to take twenty-one credits hours across at least two different departments, including at least nine completed in residence, and complete a professional internship in a field related to security studies.

8. Number of Students Expected to Receive the Certificate Each Semester: We anticipate twenty to fifty students may complete the certificate each academic year.

9. Number of Hours Required for Completion: Twenty-one

10. List Faculty on the Certificate Program Faculty Committee.

Additional courses: The Faculty Committee will revise the list of courses that qualify for the certificate annually.

Students must take courses on a grade basis and earn a combined grade point average of a 3.0 to fulfill certificate requirements.

12. Other Certificate Requirements:

Students must successfully complete an internship. Students will enroll in GOV 362L, “Government Research Internship” and will receive 3 credit hours for the internship.

- Internships must involve substantive work that exposes students to the professional work environment and offers opportunities for networking in their chosen career fields.
- Internships may be with government agencies, think tanks, NGOs, research centers, consulting firms, or other entities that offer professional job experience.
• Internships may be in the fields of diplomacy, defense, intelligence, foreign policy, national security, homeland security, international affairs, international development, human rights, and related fields.
• Internships must last a minimum of six weeks of full-time work, or its equivalent (240 hours).
• Internships may be in the United States or abroad.
• Internships may be paid or unpaid.
• Students who accept unpaid internships are invited to apply for a stipend through the Clements Center for National Security’s Summer Student Development Fund. Funds are limited and stipends are not guaranteed for certificate students.
• Students are responsible for informing the Faculty Committee of their internship plans; submitting a proposal for an internship to satisfy the certificate requirement; and submitting proof that the internship was completed.
• The Faculty Committee reviews students’ internship experience to ensure it is relevant to security studies and was satisfactorily completed.

Waivers: Students may apply for a waiver for the internship requirement if they are enrolled in ROTC; have prior military experience with no major disciplinary actions against them; or have extensive prior civilian job experience directly related to security studies. The Faculty Committee reviews applications to waive the internship requirement.

13. Give a Detailed Rationale for Change(s):
Security studies is a growing academic field, and corresponds to growing professional demand for students with interdisciplinary training in national and international security. An increasing number of the top 100 national universities have centers, degree programs, majors, and certificates recognizing a focus on international or national security, including many of UT Austin’s peer institutions.

In 2008 UT Austin formed the International Relations and Global Studies Program (IRG), which has proved enormously popular with undergraduates and is a valuable addition to UT’s offerings: IRG is helping prepare UT graduates for an increasingly globalized and interconnected world. IRG offers a concentration in International Security—currently the only path available for UT undergraduates who want to focus their studies on a security-related field. IRG now has over 800 undergraduate majors, including over 200 who are concentrating in international security, further demonstrating student demand in this area. Unfortunately, the concentration is not recognized on students’ transcripts and is only available to IRG majors.

UT Austin is well-positioned to broaden and deepen its offerings on security studies. The Normandy Scholars Program, the Strauss Center for International Security and Law, the establishment in 2013 of the Clements Center for National Security, and the subsequent creation of the two centers’ Intelligence Studies Project have already positioned UT Austin at the research and graduate student level as one of the premier universities for security studies in the nation.

We propose to expand this emerging strength to undergraduate students. Specifically, we propose that UT Austin create a transcript-recognized, interdisciplinary, undergraduate Certificate in Security Studies open to all students in the College of Liberal Arts. This certificate builds on and expands UT’s current security-related offerings. It draws on the expertise available in IRG, the Straus and Clements Centers, and the Intelligence Studies Project, and capitalizes on the interest generated by those programs. It recognizes that there are already dozens of security-related courses offered across at least eight different departments in the College. It encourages students to tie these courses together in a focused course of study—and it requires students to supplement their in-class learning with a professional internship.

(We recommend allowing ROTC cadets to waive the internship requirement because they are obligated to attend a Leader Development and Assessment Course during the summertime, typically between their junior and senior years. The course gives cadets pre-professional experience in their field, fulfilling the broad intent of the internship requirement. In addition, the course limits the time available for an internship; we expect very few cadets would be able to complete an internship and fulfill their ROTC obligations.)
Students who complete the Certificate in Security Studies will be academically trained and professionally prepared to continue their studies at the graduate level, or to enter the workforce at the state, national, and international level in a range of fields, including diplomacy, defense, intelligence, foreign policy, homeland security, international affairs, international development, human rights, and more.

PROPOSED NEW CATALOG TEXT:

Certificate in Security Studies

The Certificate in Security Studies recognizes students who focus their studies on international and national security affairs. Through the certificate, students develop an interdisciplinary expertise and practical job experience in security studies, including: diplomacy, defense, intelligence, foreign policy, homeland security, international affairs, international development, human rights, war, conflict, peace, and related fields. Students are required to take 21 credits hours across at least two different departments, including at least 9 completed in residence, and complete an internship in a field related to security studies.

This certificate is open to students in the College of Liberal Arts.

Courses
- GOV 362L, “Government Research Internship.”
- 15 additional credit hours total chosen from at least two different departments, drawn from a list available on the Certificate’s website. At least nine credit hours must be taken in residence at UT Austin.
- Students must take courses on a grade basis and earn a combined grade point average of a 3.0 to fulfill certificate requirements.

Internship
Students must successfully complete an internship. Students will enroll in GOV 362L, “Government Research Internship” and will receive 3 credit hours for the internship.

- Students are responsible for identifying internship opportunities, applying for internships, informing the Faculty Committee of their internship plans, submitting a proposal for an internship to satisfy the certificate requirement, and submitting proof that the internship was completed.
- Internships must involve substantive work that exposes students to the professional work environment and offers opportunities for networking in their chosen career fields.
- Internships may be with government agencies, think tanks, NGOs, research centers, consulting firms, or other entities that offer professional job experience.
- Internships may be in the fields of diplomacy, defense, intelligence, foreign policy, national security, homeland security, international affairs, international development, human rights, and related fields.
- The Faculty Committee reviews students’ internship experience to ensure it is relevant to security studies and was satisfactorily completed.
- Internships must last a minimum of six weeks of full-time work, or its equivalent (240 hours).
- Internships may be in the United States or abroad.
- Internships may be paid or unpaid.
- Students who accept unpaid internships are invited to apply for a stipend through the Clements Center for National Security’s Summer Student Development Fund. Funds are limited and stipends are not guaranteed for certificate students.
Waivers: Students may waive the internship requirement if they are enrolled in ROTC; have prior military experience with no major disciplinary actions against them; or have extensive prior civilian job experience directly related to security studies. The Faculty Committee reviews applications to waive the internship requirement.

1 See footnote 1b above: 18-24 hours are required.
