UT TO GET TOILET REBATE

Longhorn loos are going green.

The City of Austin plans to rebate the University of Texas $126,475 to install 718 water-efficient toilets.

The City Council will vote on the idea today. Rebates are part of Austin's water conservation program.

The toilets would save 25,024 gallons of water a day and reduce the greenhouse gas emissions needed to treat and pump that water by 21 metric tons of CO2 per year, according to Austin Water Utility.
